THE HOUSE
OF NANDI

THE BUSINESS CATALOGUE

Original work, chosen by hand in artists' studios from Zimbabwe across Africa and beyond.

OCTOBER 2026

COVER: BLESSED TAPIWA MUNYARADZE, GROWING PAINS

WHO WE ARE

WE REPRESENT THE UNDERREPRESENTED.

Nandi was a queen who never asked permission: the mother of Shaka Zulu, and a fierce leader in her own right. We carry her name because our artists share her nerve. They make bold work where there is no easy road for art, and too many barriers keep it from being seen in the places it deserves. We exist to change that.

We started in Zimbabwe, our founder's home, and the collection now reaches across Africa and beyond. We spend time with our artists, watch them work and learn how they see the world. Then we hand-pick each piece for people who will love it as much as we do.

For hotels, restaurants, offices and the designers who fit them out. Every painting here is one of a kind, so no other venue in the city can hang the same piece, and each comes with a story your team can tell: portraits collaged from banknotes, market days in rural Zimbabwe, Harare's children caught off guard. Buy outright, or lease from six months on works from USD 2,200. Interior designers: trade prices on request. Over 50 works are in Dubai today, with hundreds more in the artists' studios, and more artists than these pages can hold. Ask, and we'll show you.

THE ARTIST

BATSIRAI MUSKWE

A self-taught former stone carver who builds faces in layers of paint until the mask feels more alive than the face.

Batsirai Muskwe is driven by an enduring exploration of texture and the layered build-up of form, using mixed-media techniques to bring his vision to life. Working primarily with acrylic and oil, he creates striking paintings that merge the abstract with the figurative, favouring emotional depth over realism.

THE ARTIST

PRUDENCE CHIMUTUWAH

Collages the push and pull of being a modern African woman, out of banknotes, magazines and sheet music.

Prudence Chimutuwah blends traditional painting techniques with intricate collage to create richly textured pieces. Her art explores femininity, identity, both personal and societal, and the complexities of female empowerment today.

THE ARTIST

ALEX ZIPNAPECHKA

Lays on oil in thick ridges until Bali’s horses and fighting cocks seem to move off the canvas.

Alex Zipnapechka was born in the jungle around Ubud, in Bali, and still paints in his home village, a place that has given Indonesia many of its finest artists. Now in his later years, he paints the island he grew up in: its animals, and the rituals around them, in oil laid on so thickly that the surface stands up from the canvas.

THE ARTIST

SKY SALANJE

Paints the controlled chaos of a life lived half in town, half in the village.

Sky Salanje paints from a life many in Zimbabwe share, half urban and half rural, and his work is rooted in his surroundings and daily experience. It is an unfiltered portrayal of a life of controlled chaos, with bold, vibrant colour and a touch of pseudo-realism influenced by modern pop culture.

THE ARTIST

CALVIN CHIMUTUWAH

Paints Harare's children when they think no one is looking.

Calvin Chimutuwah has an eclectic visual language that captures the textures of lived experience and the spaces occupied by the urban African. His work portrays dynamic yet familiar scenes, often of children caught in unguarded moments of daily life.

THE ARTIST

EVANS MUTENGA

Turns down the wildlife and sunsets buyers expect from African art, and etches, prints and weaves the human figure instead.

Evans Mutenga is fascinated by the human form and the possibilities of abstract imagination. His work steps away from the conventions of traditional African art for a modern, personal approach that reflects his emotional state and creative impulses.

THE ARTIST

TONELY NGWENYA

Builds his faces with a palette knife, ridge by ridge, the way a life builds a face.

Tonely Ngwenya creates emotionally evocative works rooted in modern African culture, telling stories through rich texture and expressive form. His mastery of the palette knife gives his paintings a distinctive depth.

QUESTIONS

GOOD TO KNOW

Can I see a piece before I decide?

Yes. Send us a photo of your space and we bring a shortlist to you, so you see it on your own wall. Private viewings by appointment.

Are these originals?

Every painting is a one-off. The few prints in the collection are marked as prints on their page.

Is delivery and hanging included?

Yes, anywhere in the UAE. We bring the work and install it.

How does leasing work?

Larger works can be leased for a monthly fee, shown on the page. Six months minimum. If you'd like to keep a piece, ask us about buying it.

Can the art change over time?

Yes. Leased pieces can be rotated for an additional fee, so a room can change with the season or a new launch.

Do the works come framed?

Canvases arrive ready to hang. Works on paper, and any piece you would like framed, can be framed by our framing partner, quoted per piece.

Can you ship outside the UAE?

Yes, worldwide. Standard shipping on unframed canvases is on us. Framed works ship at the buyer's cost.

Why The House of Nandi?

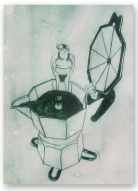

We represent the underrepresented. Great artists are everywhere, and we bring their work to the world it deserves.
